

STATE OF SMALL BUSINESS

America's favorite businesses

From a science camp for girls to a kombucha brewer, communities around the country voted on their favorite small businesses. These 12 came out on top, each scoring a $250,000 grant from Chase and a trip to Google's headquarters.

Catering on wheels

Business: Rolling in Dough Pizza Location: Greenport, N.Y.

Matthew Michel started his catering company, Rolling in Dough Pizza, about five years ago.

He caters out of his truck and receives about 95% of his business from referrals. "We offer a high-quality product and we're not gouging people with outrageous prices," Michel said.

Biggest business challenge: "Getting funding," Michel said. "In the beginning, I couldn't go to a bank because I had no credit to speak of," In fact, his first $150,000 came from his greatgrandfather.

Best advice: "Offer the highest-quality product from the start. The first thing they'll see is what they'll remember," Michel said.

What he plans to do with the grant money: Open a small retail location with his own kitchen. He'll do a lot of prep work out of the new kitchen, but will continue catering out of his truck.
